STATE OF MISSOURI

OFFICE OF SECRETARY OF STATE

JEFFERSON CITY 65102

Fellow Missourians:

A requirement of good government is an informed, participatory citizenry. A knowledge of the structure of government serves to make it both accessible and responsible.

I'm pleased to present this edition of the Missouri Roster, 1991-1992. The Roster contains a wealth of information on the agencies and individuals who provide the services of state and local government.

The Secretary of State's office acts as a clearinghouse for information about the Show Me State. If you have comments or suggestions on how we might better serve the information needs of Missourians, please feel free to let me know.

Thanks for your interest in Missouri.

Best regards,

Roy D. Blunt

Office of Governor

The chief executive officer of the State of Missouri must be at least 30 years old, a U.S. citizen for 15 years or longer and a resident of Missouri for at least 10 years before being elected governor.

The governor is elected to a four-year term during the same year as a presidential election and may seek re-election to a second four-year term. No person may hold the office for more than two terms.

The governor appoints the members of all boards, commissions, the heads of all departments in state government and all vacancies in public offices unless otherwise provided by law. The board members of Missouri's state universities and colleges are appointed by the governor. The governor also selects the members of the Supreme and Appellate Courts of Missouri from names submitted by the State Judicial Commissions. He appoints the Board of Election Commissioners for St. Louis City, St. Louis County, Kansas City, Jackson County and Clay County. The governor also appoints the Board of Police Commissioners for Kansas City and St. Louis City. Moreover, he appoints the Board of Probation and Parole. Most appointments require the advice and consent of the Senate.

The governor addresses the General Assembly on the state of government and recommends changes or other actions to be taken. A budget is submitted by the governor to the General Assembly within 30 days after the assembly convenes.

Office of Lieutenant Governor

The lieutenant governor of the State of Missouri must be at least 30 years old, a U.S. citizen for 15 years or longer and a resident of Missouri for at least 10 years before being elected to this office.

The lieutenant governor is elected for a four-year term and is subject to re-election.

Under the constitution, the lieutenant governor is ex officio president of the Missouri Senate. Upon the death, conviction, impeachment, failure to qualify, resignation, absence from the state or other disabilities, the powers, duties and emoluments of the governor devolve upon the lieutenant governor until the end of his or her term or until the disabilities of the governor are removed. By law, the lieutenant governor serves as secretary and member of the Board of Public Buildings. The lieutenant governor also serves as the state's ombudsman.

Office of Secretary of State

The secretary of state is Missouri's chief elections official. The office also oversees several areas in regard to state commerce—administration of the Missouri Uniform Commercial Code and registration of corporations and securities—and is the official keeper of the Great Seal of the State of Missouri. The Secretary of State also publishes and maintains a variety of state documents.

The secretary of state's office is divided into three branches—Election Services, Business Services and Administrative Services. Each branch, under the direction of a deputy secretary of state, is composed of separate divisions which perform specific functions relating to branch activities.

Office of State Auditor

The state auditor's office is charged with auditing all state agencies, boards and commissions and the state's third- and fourth-class counties. The auditor may also be called on to audit local units of government by citizen petition.

Approximately 200 state agencies and programs, the state's circuit court system and 94 third- and fourth-class counties must be audited by the state auditor regularly. A number of local government audits, petitioned by local voters, are performed each year.

In addition, the state auditor is charged with the design of accounting systems for state and local governments, approval of depositaries selected by the state treasurer and service as a member of the Board of Fund Commissioners and the State Records Commission. The state auditor also examines and registers all general obligation bonds issued by political subdivisions of the state to ensure that each one complies with state law and reviews all property tax rates set by local political subdivisions.

State Auditor Margaret Kelly

The powers of the state auditor are derived from Article IV, Section 13 of the Missouri Constitution. Legal duties are detailed in Chapter 29 of the Revised Statutes of Missouri.

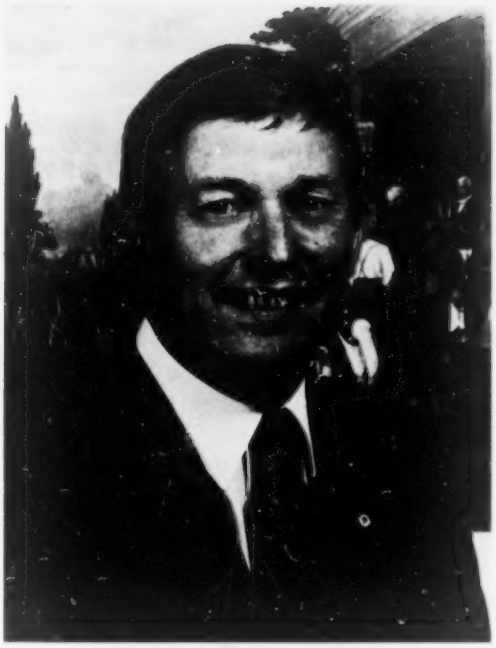
Office of State Treasurer

As defined by the Missouri Constitution, the duties of the state treasurer are: to be custodian of all state funds; determine the amount of state moneys not needed for current operating expenses; and invest those moneys not needed for current operations in time deposits, bearing interest, in Missouri banking institutions selected by the state treasurer with approval from the governor and state auditor, or in short-term U.S. government obligations.

The Office of State Treasurer operates like a bank. To disburse state funds, a warrant is prepared in the Office of Administration. The warrant, signed by the commissioner of administration, is presented to the state treasurer's office for processing. After being signed by the treasurer, it is converted into a negotiable check, or draft, on a designated depository of state funds.



State Treasurer Wendell Bailey

The state treasurer is a member of the State Board of Fund Commissioners, the Missouri Housing Development Commission and the board of trustees of the Missouri State Employees' Retirement System.

Office of Attorney General

The attorney general is the state's attorney, representing the legal interests of Missouri and its people as a group.

As the state's chief legal officer, the attorney general must prosecute or defend all appeals to which the state is a party, including every felony criminal case that is appealed to the Missouri Supreme Court and courts of appeal. He is required to institute all civil suits and other proceedings that are necessary to protect the state's rights, interests or claims. He also may appear, interplead, answer or defend any proceedings in which the state's interests are involved, or appear on state's behalf in declaratory judgment proceedings when the constitutionality of a statute is challenged.

The attorney general renders official opinions to the General Assembly and other elected and appointed officials on questions of law relating to their duties.

Executive Departments

Government is a service industry, and Missourians are served by a broad network of government organizations. Because of the many different names used by these groups—departments, divisions, agencies, boards, commissions, bureaus, units, sections, programs and others—it can be difficult to determine which area of government is responsible for certain services, or to sort out responsibilities or relationships within the governmental framework.

The Missouri Constitution (Article II, Section 1) states: "The powers of government shall be divided into three distinct departments—the legislative, executive and judicial." This section also prohibits persons within each branch from exercising powers of the other branches.

From these three branches spring the variety of organizations which deliver services of state government. Generally speaking, the legislative and judicial branches rely on committees or other small, appointed groups to perform research, develop policy, provide advocacy services or handle administrative duties. In these two branches, most services are delivered through the offices of the elected officials themselves and not by related agencies.

It is through the executive branch that many state services are delivered; consequently a network of governmental bodies has been developed to administer these needs. The Constitution (Article IV, Section 12) and the Reorganization Act of 1974 have established a number of "executive departments" to deal with specific areas of interest. A chart showing the present state departments is shown on the following page.

The Missouri Constitution, as amended in 1990, enumerates 14 specific departments (the Office of Administration and the departments of Agriculture, Conservation, Economic Development, Elementary and Secondary Education, Higher Education, Highways and Transportation, Insurance, Labor and Industrial Relations, Mental Health, Natural Resources, Public Safety, Revenue and Social Services) and allows for the formation of up to two others (currently the Department of Corrections and Human Resources and the Department of Health). This brings the total to 16 major state departments.

Within each executive department exists a variety of governmental bodies, of varying size and scope, which deal individually with specific services. Traditionally, "divisions" are the next-largest organizations within departments and function to bring together smaller-sized groups, such as "bureaus," "sections" or "units." Divisions may be governed by a "board" or "commission" composed of members who are either appointed by the governor, made members by law or appointed by a department official. State agencies may administer certain sections of state law, as defined by the Revised Statutes of Missouri, may develop their own rules and regulations as promulgated in the Missouri Register and Code of State Regulations or may institute programs and policies which address the needs of their areas of service.

Office of Administration

P.O. Box 809, Jefferson City 65102

The Office of Administration is the state's service and administrative control agency. Created by the General Assembly on January 15, 1973, it combines and coordinates the central management functions of state government. Its responsibilities were clarified and amended by the Omnibus State Reorganization Act of 1974.

The chief administrative officer is the commissioner of administration who is appointed by the governor with the advice and consent of the Senate. The commissioner appoints a deputy commissioner and the directors of the eight divisions who are responsible to him through the deputy commissioner. The divisions are: Accounting; Budget and Planning; Design and Construction; Data Processing and Telecommunications; Flight Operations; General Services; Personnel; and Purchasing.

The Department of Agriculture enforces state laws regulating the handling and marketing of agricultural products, maintains surveillance of Missouri farm land and administers state statutes pertaining to corporate farm registration.

Created by the General Assembly in 1933, the department is managed by a director who is appointed by the governor and confirmed by the Senate. The director oversees the department's seven divisions and disseminates industry information to the governor, the state legislature, the Governor's Advisory Council on Agriculture and the public. With the support of department staff, a deputy director and division directors, the director also oversees the activities of the Missouri Agricultural and Small Business Development Authority.

Department of Conservation

2901 W. Truman Blvd., P.O. Box 180
Jefferson City 65102-0180

The Department of Conservation, authorized by an amendment to the Constitution, was created for better management of the state's wildlife and forest resources. Since the department funding was increased in 1977 by an addition to the state sales tax, the department has purchased more than 264,000 acres of public land for wildlife, fisheries, forestry conservation, public recreation, and has substantially expanded most programs—most notably conservation education, law enforcement, forestry and wildlife services, and activities dealing with endangered species, non-game wildlife and natural areas.

The department is headed by the Conservation Commission, whose four members are appointed by the governor with the advice and consent of the Senate, serving for staggered terms of six years each. The commissioners appoint the department director, who along with a deputy and two assistant directors direct programs and activities through the following department units: forestry, fisheries, wildlife, protection, natural history, engineering, planning, public affairs, education, human resources, operations, fiscal services and information services.

Department of Corrections and Human Resources

P.O. Box 236, Jefferson City 65102

The Department of Corrections and Human Resources supervises convicted felons and misdemeanents.

Organized as a separate department of state government by an act of the legislature in 1981, it is comprised of four divisions: Administration, Classification and Treatment, Adult Institutions and the Board of Probation and Parole. The executive staff includes the department director, deputy director and division directors.

The Division of Administration, consisting of six units, provides support to the divisions of Adult Institutions and Classification and Treatment, the Board of Probation and Parole and the department's technical staff.

The Division of Classification and Treatment's goal is inmate rehabilitation through the provision of specialized treatment programs.

The Board of Probation and Parole consists of five members, appointed by the governor with the advice and consent of the Senate. They are assisted by three parole analysts who sit with the board on hearings and make recommendations on parole reviews.

Department of Elementary and Secondary Education

Jefferson State Office Building, Jefferson City 65102

The Department of Elementary and Secondary Education is largely a service agency. Its services are designed to assist local school districts in carrying out the requirements prescribed by state law and to provide leadership in the improvement of the administration and instruction of the public schools of the state.

In 1974 the Omnibus State Reorganization Act abolished the Department of Education, Division of Public Schools and created the Department of Elementary and Secondary Education headed by a State Board of Education. The act transferred all powers, duties, personnel and property of the Department of Education, Division of Public Schools and others to the Department of Elementary and Secondary Education.

The State Board of Education is a lay board consisting of eight members, appointed by the governor and confirmed by the Senate. It is vested with the responsibility for the supervision of the public school system in this state and establishes policy in accordance with state and federal law for the department. The board appoints a commissioner of education, who serves as chief administrative and executive officer of the department. He along with the department staff interprets and implements policies established by the board. The commissioner is assisted by a deputy commissioner and assistant commissioners for each of the six divisions.

Department of Health

1738 E. Elm, P.O. Box 570, Jefferson City 65102

The Department of Health was created to enhance Missouri's ability to respond to the increasing challenges of protecting the public's health.

In 1985, provisions of S.B. No. 25 elevated the Division of Health in the Department of Social Services to a separate cabinet-level department.

The State Board of Health, consisting of seven members appointed by the governor, acts in an advisory capacity regarding rules promulgated by the Department of Health and administers the State Hospital Subsidy Program.

The director of the department, appointed by the governor with the advice and consent of the Senate, is the chief liaison officer of the department for joint efforts with other governmental agencies and with private organizations which conduct or sponsor programs that relate to public health in Missouri. Under the director, the department is organized into six areas of activities.

Department of Higher Education

101 Adams, Jefferson City 65101

The primary goals of the Department of Higher Education are to ensure financial access, promote quality and assure efficiency in the system.

The Coordinating Board for Higher Education consists of nine members which are appointed by the governor, confirmed by the Senate and represent each Missouri congressional district.

Established by a 1972 amendment to the Missouri Constitution, it serves as an informed spokesman for the public interest. The four major functions performed by the coordinating board are: statewide planning for higher education and libraries; policy analysis; academic program approval and review in the public two- and four-year colleges and universities; and budget recommendations to the governor and General Assembly for operating and capital financing for four-year colleges and universities.

In addition, the board has administrative responsibilities for operating the Missouri State Library and Wolfner Library for the Blind and Physically Handicapped, for the Missouri Student Grant Program, The Missouri Stafford Student Loan Program, the Missouri Prospective Teacher Loan Program, the Higher Education Academic Scholarship Program for overseeing proprietary schools in Missouri, and for the State Anatomical Board. Additional responsibilities include recommending state aid for the public libraries.

The board employs a commissioner to serve as its chief executive officer to carry out its goals and administrative responsibilities. The commissioner is responsible for employing staff and administering all programs and responsbilities of the board.

Department of Highways and Transportation

Highways and Transportation Office Bldg.
Jefferson City 65101

The Highways and Transportation Department shoulders the responsibilities for the five viable transportation alternatives available to Missourians—highways, aviation, waterways, transit and railroads. Those responsibilities include total operation of the 32,000-mile highway system, including highway location, design, construction and maintenance.

In 1979 voters passed Constitutional Amendment 2 which merged the separate Highways and Transportation departments into the one Highways and Transportation Department.

The State Highways and Transportation Commission, composed of six members, is the governing body of the department. The members are appointed by the governor, with the consent of the Senate.

The chief engineer, chief counsel and secretary are appointed by the commission. All other appointments are made by the chief engineer, with approval of the commission.

Department of Labor and Industrial Relations

3315 W. Truman Blvd., P.O. Box 599
Jefferson City 65102

Individual economic stability and advancement of Missouri citizenry is the primary goal of the department, along with the need to be responsive and fair to both employees and employers.

The department, composed of six agencies, was established by the Omnibus State Reorganization Act of 1974.

The Labor and Industrial Relations Commission consists of three members, appointed by the governor with advice and consent of the Senate. As a part of its duties the Commission entertains appeals from all decisions and awards in workers' compensation, unemployment compensation, prevailing wage cases and victims of crime compensation cases.

The director is nominated by the commission and appointed by the governor, subject to the advice and consent of the Senate, to be the chief administrative officer of the department.

Jefferson City 65102

Provided by state law the principal missions of the department are: prevention of mental disorders, developmental disabilities and substance abuse; treatment, habilitation and rehabilitation of Missourians who suffer from those conditions; and, improvement of public understanding and attitudes about mental disorders, developmental disabilities and substance abuse.

The department was established as a cabinet-level state agency by the Omnibus State Reorganization Act of 1974.

Seven members make up the Mental Health Commission which serves as the principal policy adviser to the department director. The director, appointed by the commission with the confirmation of the Senate, is responsible for overall operations of the department, its three operating divisions, five support offices, 29 facilities and central office.

Department of Public Safety

Truman State Office Building, P.O. Box 749
Jefferson City 65102-0749

The Department of Public Safety is responsible for coordinating all elements of law enforcement, criminal investigation and public safety activities undertaken by state government, the ultimate goal being to ensure the safety and security of Missouri's citizens and their property. This is accomplished through the activities of eight divisions: Office of the Adjutant General (Missouri National Guard); the State Emergency Management Agency; Division of Veterans' Affairs; Division of Highway Safety; Division of Liquor Control; Missouri State Water Patrol; Division of Fire Safety and the Missouri State Highway Patrol.

Established by the Omnibus State Reorganization Act of 1974, the department consisted of a small central staff and seven divisions which had reported directly to the governor. Since then significant changes have occurred.

The department is under the supervision of a director, appointed by the governor with the advice and consent of the Senate.

Department of Revenue

P.O. Box 311, Sixth Floor, Truman State Office Building, Jefferson City 65105-0311

The Department of Revenue serves as the central collection agency for all state revenues. The department's primary duties are collection of taxes, titling and registration of motor vehicles and licensing of drivers throughout the state.

The department was created by Article IV, Section 22, of the 1945 Missouri Constitution.

The director, appointed by the governor and confirmed by the Senate, is responsible for all operations and policies of the department.

Five divisions, under a division director, administer the operation of the department: Division of Administration; Division of Information Systems; Division of Motor Vehicle and Driver Licensing; Division of Taxation and Collection; and Division of Compliance.

Department of Social Services

Broadway State Office Bldg., P.O. Box 1527
Jefferson City 65102-1527

The Department of Social Services has developed a cooperative approach toward delivering social programs to needy Missourians of all ages. They provide assistance to children and their parents, help the elderly with in-home services, aid troubled youth and furnish health care for the poor. Many of the programs provide financial assistance, while other areas work to help those in need reach their maximum potential and reduce welfare dependency.

Created in 1974, the department encompasses five agencies that previously operated social programs under separate administrations. Currently the department consists of four administrative support divisions and five program divisions. The directors of these divisions report to the department director.

The director is responsible for the overall administration of all programs within the department, except as otherwise provided by law. He determines priorities for program implementation and has final approval for uses of state and federal funds appropriated to the department.

Missouri Courts

Missouri has a three-tier court system. Article V of the Constitution, as amended by Missouri voters in 1976, vests the judicial power in a Supreme Court, the state's highest court, with statewide jurisdiction; in a Court of Appeals consisting of districts established by the General Assembly; and in a system of circuit courts which have original jurisdiction over all cases and matters, civil and criminal.

The Supreme Court and Court of Appeals have general superintending control over all courts and tribunals within their jurisdictions. Original remedial writs may be issued and determined at each level of the court system. Decisions of the Supreme Court are controlling in all other courts.

Within the divisions of the Circuit Court there are three levels of jurisdiction: The circuit division, the associate circuit division and the municipal division. Circuit judges may hear and determine all cases and matters within the jurisdiction of the Circuit Court.

The number of circuit judges is determined by the General Assembly. The Constitution requires at least one circuit judge in each of Missouri's 44 judicial circuits.

Associate circuit judges may hear those types of civil and criminal matters specified in Chapters 472, 476, 478 and 482 of the Revised Statutes. By agreement of the parties, by assignment of the circuit's presiding judge or by local court rule, associate circuit judges may hear any matter pending in the Circuit Court. Associate circuit judges may hear any case upon assignment by the Supreme Court.

Classification of Municipalities

Missouri statutes classify municipalities on the basis of population and limit the form of government options of each classification. The statutes provide that a community may incorporate as a city of the third class, fourth class or village on the basis of the population at the time of incorporation[1]. Once a community is incorporated under a given classification, the municipality does not automatically change classification with a gain or loss of population. A municipality may change classification only when the change is approved by a majority vote of the people.

There are certain forms of government permitted for each classification of municipality. Villages are permitted only one form of government—an elected board of trustees, five in number if the village has less than 2,500 population and nine if more than 2,500 population. Fourth-class cities are permitted to have either the mayor/board of aldermen form or the mayor/city administrator/aldermen form. The board of aldermen may adopt the city administrator form by ordinance, without a vote of the people. Third-class cities are granted greater flexibility with the authority to establish the mayor/council form, the council/manager form, the commission form or the mayor/city administrator/council form. Finally, constitutionaal charter cities may adopt any form of government that the people approve in the charter.

[1]From 1821 to 1875, the Missouri General Assembly passed special legislative charters for specific cities, until the 1875 Constitution prohibited further granting and amending of special legislative charters. However, six Missouri municipalities are still operating under special legislative charters granted before 1875. They are Carrollton, Chillicothe, LaGrange, Liberty, Miami and Pleasant Hill. If the voters of these municipalities decide to relinquish their special charters, they will be governed by the appropriate sections of the statutes relevant to their population classification.

Proposition A—(Proposed by Initiative Petition) Shall there be enacted a Missouri statute to establish a Natural Streams System made up of specific Missouri streams, tributaries and related lands; to be regulated and protected through creation of a Natural Streams Commission and through adoption of management plans and regulations—developed with local input—that maintain existing lawful uses while regulating the future use of the System by prohibiting activities such as the construction of dams and the use of certain motorized vehicles; and by establishing fees for certain System users with revenue from those fees used to help finance administration of this act? Annual administrative costs ranging from $1,270,000 to $2,600,000 with $10,000 to $1,250,000 from General Revenue and $85,000 from the Highway Fund, not including possible legal challenges. Permit fees of $2,700,000 to Natural Streams Fund.
